The two biggest bestsellers in any bookshops are cookbooks and diet books. The cookbooks tell you how to prepare food and the diet books tell you how not to eat any of it.

Andy Rooney, US humorist

Food: fuel or pleasure?

1 READING

a Read the text. Mark the sentences T (True) or F (False).

- 1 Americans eat more fruit than any other food. F
- 2 Cocoa drinks are good for your health. —
- 3 People are buying more soy drinks. —
- 4 People are buying less pasta. —
- 5 Nuts are good for you. —

Most people believe that health is very important and, because of this, many are trying to eat more healthily. For example, people in the UK are eating less salt and more low fat margarine and milk; fruit is now America's second-favourite snack and Japan is currently promoting cocoa because it is a healthy alternative to soft drinks like Coca Cola. These changes in eating habits are also having an effect on the food market. Global sales are increasing for soy drinks and drinkable yoghurts more than any other food and sales of bread, pasta, and cereals are growing much more slowly. People are also becoming more interested in fresh fruit and vegetables and 'farmers' markets' are getting more popular throughout Europe. When they can, people often opt for 'natural goodness', and they're buying more products that are healthy, like fruit, salads, and nuts. They are also buying products that help to protect the environment, like organic vegetables. So it's clear that things in the food world will never be the same again.

b Match the highlighted words to a word with a similar meaning below.

- 1 worldwide global
- 2 think —
- 3 now —
- 4 becoming —
- 5 choose —
- 6 a substitute for —
- 7 getting bigger —
- 8 look after, keep from danger —

c Complete the sentences with the highlighted words from the text.

- 1 Many vegetarians eat soya as an alternative to meat.
- 2 Some people — that all ready-cooked meals are unhealthy.
- 3 The number of people buying organic vegetables is — in many countries.
- 4 The UK government is — studying how to encourage people to change their eating habits.
- 5 In the US and Europe, many children are — fatter because of their bad diets.
- 6 Many people — a change in diet because it makes them feel better.
- 7 A balanced diet can help to — you from illness.
- 8 Unhealthy eating is now a — problem: not just in the US and Europe.

OLYMPIC HISTORY

THE OLYMPIC GAMES HAVE A LONG HISTORY WHICH GOES BACK TO ANCIENT TIMES, STARTING IN GREECE 3,000 YEARS AGO.

SPORTS COMPETITIONS WERE ORGANIZED AT OLYMPIA AND WERE NAMED AFTER THEIR LOCATION, HENCE THEIR NAME OF OLYMPIC GAMES.

A Olympic athletes had to be male, of Greek nationality, and not slaves. They promised to compete in an honourable way and to follow the rules but some athletes still cheated. If caught, they had to pay a large fine and this money was used to pay for statues of Zeus, which were located along the route to the stadium with the name of the cheat on each base. To get to the stadium, the athletes had to walk past all the statues.

B Unlike the modern Olympics, which currently includes 35 sports and nearly 400 events, many of which are team sports such as football and basketball, the ancient Games only included individual events.

Seven types of events took place in the stadium, including running, discus, javelin, long jump, wrestling, and boxing. There was also chariot racing and horse riding in the hippodrome.

C The Olympic Games became a major sports event but the Roman Emperor Theodosius I finally decided to ban the Olympic Games in 393 AD after more than 1,000 years of existence because he thought they were a pagan cult.

Gradually the site disappeared and was forgotten. However, in the 19th century, archaeological work finally revealed the ruins of Olympia and, today, visitors can appreciate Olympia and imagine the past glory of the Games.

Study Link Student's Book p.146 Vocabulary Bank

Continuing our regular feature of fathers and sons, this week we talk to artist Chris Dennis and his son, Kirk. Last weekend Chris taught Kirk to draw, and Kirk taught his father to windsurf.

Like father, like son

Chris We're a very close family. There are a lot of similarities between me and Kirk and we both like being outside. He's much more active than me, of course – but he's 20 and I'm 52, so that's not surprising! I spend a lot of time walking on the cliffs by the sea and sometimes I do 100 drawings in a day. In the holidays, Kirk is usually in the sea windsurfing, and he can spend all day doing that.

I've never been windsurfing, but I thought it would be good to try it. On the day Kirk took me out, it was fairly warm but the sea was quite rough – not great conditions for a beginner! We went to a beach near Land's End in Cornwall. I borrowed an old wetsuit which was a bit small and tight. Kirk swam in the sea next to me and showed me how to balance on the board, and how to keep the sail vertical. It was exhausting!

I really enjoyed the experience, but I won't take up windsurfing – my time is too precious for another big hobby. But I was surprised at how much I liked it. But the best thing about the weekend was sharing time together with my son.

Kirk Dad and I are really close. We get on like friends as well as father and son. But because I'm away at university and I only see Mum and Dad every two or three months, we don't have much chance to do things together.

My Dad spends most of his free time drawing. He goes on long walks and always takes a sketchbook with him. I thought it would be interesting to see if I had any of his talent!

On the day we went out we walked along the cliffs above a beach. We each had a sketchbook and we were drawing as we went along. I hadn't done any drawing since I was at primary school, so it was difficult to start with. Dad was giving me advice all the time, and I did lots of drawings but I couldn't see any improvement by the end! My Mum said she liked them, but I think she was just being kind.

I'll definitely go for a walk with Dad again, but I don't think I'll take any drawing stuff – I'm never going to be an artist!

MY AFRICAN EXPERIENCE

Lucy Mills writes

There are so many life-changing experiences available that I had great fun researching options for my gap year*. Having always played sports, and especially football, I thought teaching children to play football in Ghana (organized by Gap Sports Abroad) sounded different and amazing.

Initially I thought that a girl football coach might not be respected, but as soon as I got to Ghana I realized that I was wrong. I worked with the Young Schweppes Football Club in Nungua, a poor area in the city of Accra. I coached under-12, under-14 and under-17 boys from poor rural families. The training pitch was a dusty patch of land, and taxis and goats used to cross the pitch during matches! Many of the boys played in bare feet and without T-shirts, but their passion for the game was amazing. For thousands of Ghanaian children football is their life, a possible escape from poverty.

The weather was boiling so I coached early in the morning and in the evening to avoid the midday sun, but after a while I didn't mind the heat any more. During the day I went home to snooze, sunbathe, or read on the balcony, or I looked round markets or went to the beach.

I loved Ghana because of its hidden beauty, and the warmth and friendliness of the people. Being a volunteer is sometimes really hard because you get the feeling that what you are doing is not enough, but it is very rewarding both for yourself and for the children you meet.

* Many students in the UK take a year's break between finishing university and starting work. They often travel abroad during this 'gap year.'

Getting around in Bolivia

How you choose to travel in Bolivia largely depends on how much time and money you have – the more money, the less time you need to spend travelling!

AIR

Lloyd Aereo Boliviano (LAB) has frequent flights between many large cities within the country. A LABPass allows you four flights between the main cities.

You can also fly AeroSur which has a better service but higher prices. The main air terminal is La Paz El Alto airport. You can get a bus or taxi into the centre of La Paz – a taxi will cost about $6–10, the bus is only about $0.50.

BUS

Flotas, the long distance buses, are generally newer, in better condition, and travel the main roads. Reserve a ticket in advance, and plan to travel by night on the very long routes so that you can sleep. Smaller buses are called buses and travel the secondary routes. The smallest buses are micros, and they do the local routes.

If you want to travel very cheaply, you can catch a ride on a lorry (camión), but be prepared for a slow and uncomfortable trip. Some lorries have scheduled departures and will accept reservations, but you can also wait for one at police checkpoints outside some towns.

Tip! For smaller buses and lorries, dress warmly. The high altitude means that the temperature can drop very low at night.

TRAIN

The best train is the ferrobus, not always available, but it is fast, usually reliable, and comfortable. You can buy tickets up to a week in advance. Next, the express train, known as tren expreso. These have first and second class seats, and a dining car. The third option is the tren rápido (the fast train), which isn't fast at all as it stops at every station. The fourth train is the tren mixto (the mixed train), which carries passengers and cargo. Because it is so cheap, if irregular, many of the poorest travellers use this to transport themselves, their luggage, and their animals.

This week's question

What do you think of office gossip?

A report by the Working Relations Partnership recommends that employers should see gossiping at work as a good thing, not a waste of time. We asked you what you think.

- ☒ HELEN As I understand it, gossiping is just talking about someone behind their back – which can't be good. It divides people.
- ☐ AARON Gossip is great and in my office it travels even quicker than email.
- ☐ GRAHAM Gossip is fine providing it's not about you!
- ☐ STEPH A good social atmosphere is important. However, gossiping can damage people's careers – and there's no way of knowing if it's true or not.
- ☐ JOSEPH In my opinion people are paid to work, not to swap stories.
- ☐ LUKE I am the only man in an office full of women and the constant boring gossip is a real problem. They spend the whole day chatting and I find it hard to concentrate.

b Look at the highlighted words. What do you think they mean? Check with your dictionary.

c Complete the sentences with the highlighted words.

- 2 — talking loudly on their mobiles, some people also interrupt conversations to take a call.
- 3 Mobile phones are very useful. —, they can also be very annoying.

Changing manners

The fast, high-tech lives of Americans have had a big effect on American society. Bad manners and behaviour have become typical in our hurried world, from angry drivers to loud mobile phone conversations in public.

Many Americans believe that manners have got worse and official figures confirm this. In a recent survey, nearly 70% said that people are rudier than they were 20 or 30 years ago. This is true of both large and small towns, although 74% of those living in cities said that people have become rudier, compared with 67% in rural areas. However, few people believe that they have bad manners themselves!

For example, only 8% in the questionnaire admit they have ever used their mobiles in public in a loud or annoying way.

Many people blame new technology for our changing manners. Computers, iPods, and mobile phones take us away from face-to-face contact, as well as also being very annoying in public places. 'All of these things result in a world with more stress, more chances for people to be rude to each other,' said Peter Post, an instructor on business manners.

But what can we do about it? Some people would like to see a railway carriage reserved for mobile users, so that the rest of us can travel in peace and quiet. In fact, one American train company, Amtrak, has banned mobile phones in one carriage of some trains, which is called a 'Quiet Car'.

| 7 Some computer programs automatically delete emoticons.    | _____    |
| 8 It's a bad idea to use emoticons in more formal messages. | _____    |

Emoticons

The word emoticon comes from a combination of two words: emotion and icon and it is a sequence of characters that is intended to represent a human face and its appearance or emotion.

The basic form contains eyes [ : ], perhaps the nose [ - ], and the mouth, which can be happy [ ) ] or sad [ ( ]. People also add hair, beards, glasses, etc. depending on the situation. In the West emoticons are written from left to right, so the hair or eyes are normally first, followed by a nose and then the mouth. If you put your head on one side, towards your left shoulder, you can recognize them more easily.

An early example of using text to represent a face appeared in the New York Herald Tribune in 1953 to advertise the film Lili: 'Today - You'll laugh :) You'll cry :( You'll love <3 Lili'.

People from East Asia often use a style of emoticons known as verticons (vertical + icon) or 'kaomoji' in Japanese, which literally means 'face letters'. You can recognize these emoticons 'straight on', i.e. without turning your head to one side. The style of these faces is similar to the style in Japanese anime and manga comic books.

Nowadays people often use emoticons in email messages but people shouldn't use emoticons in more formal situations. One reason is because some programs automatically replace emoticons with images. For example, one man was discussing his department's financial plan by email with his boss. He wrote 401(k) in his email (k = £1,000), but the software automatically replaced (k) with a pair of lips giving a big kiss, and that's what his boss saw instead of 401(k)!

a Read the ten tips about running in a marathon.

Which give advice for during the race? 1

You've done your training – now you have to run the race. Here are our top ten tips to help you succeed in any big city marathon.

1 Be determined to finish. Your mind needs to be as strong as your body! Don't give up unless you have an injury.

2 Check all your gear carefully three or four days before the race. Then you'll know you haven't forgotten anything. Don't wear any new gear, especially shoes.

3 Have a gentle run the day before the big race. Two or three miles will not affect your energy reserves and it will relieve any pre-race nerves you may be feeling.

4 Resist the temptation to spend the whole day before the race sightseeing or shopping. It's easy to do that at the big city marathons like London or New York, especially if you go with a partner. Take it easy the day before.

5 Have a shower the morning of the marathon. This removes body oils and helps the body stay cool, which is important to prevent dehydration.

6 Split the race into 'chunks' in your mind. Concentrate on each five-mile or five-kilometre section, so that you feel you are making progress. Instead of running 26 miles, you just have to run five miles five times!

7 Run at a steady pace that you know you can maintain. Don't get too excited at the start – if you set off too fast, you'll suffer later.

8 Eat a large balanced dinner in preparation for the race. This could include protein, carbohydrate, and some fat. A nice dessert would be fine. No alcohol!

9 Don't drink too much during the race. You should sip water at every stop but not too much. Never try glucose supplements if you haven't used them before in training.

10 Plan how to get to the start of the race carefully and arrive at least half an hour before so you have time to warm up properly.

b Read the ten tips again and mark the sentences T (True) or F (False).

- 1 If you have an injury, you should stop running. T
- 2 Buy a pair of new running shoes especially for the race.
- 3 You shouldn't run far the day before the race.
- 4 Spend the day before looking round the city.
- 5 If you don't have a shower on the day of the race, you may become dehydrated.
- 6 Have a rest every five miles or five kilometres.
- 7 It's a good idea to start the race fast and then slow down.
- 8 You shouldn't eat a lot the day before the race.
- 9 You should drink a little water at regular intervals.
- 10 Don't arrive too early for the start of the race.

Getting Around

The best way to get around is on foot or by metro, at least until you become familiar with the bus routes. Free maps are available at the Gare du Nord railway station and other metro or train stations. Buy a Paris Par Arrondissements (the Parisian A-Z) from any of the kiosks at metro entrances. This useful little book lists every street by arrondissement (district) and has maps with clear references. And you can always ask the locals for directions, of course.

The Paris metro is easy to use, clean and fast. Follow sortie for the exit and correspondance to change lines. Buy a carnet of ten tickets to save money and stamp your ticket in the machine before you get on. The bus is also a great way to travel with a view, once you are familiar with the routes. Remember to stamp (composter) your tickets in the machines just after you get on. Central Paris is compact and the best way to get to know it is on foot, particularly to feel the atmosphere change slightly as you go from arrondissement to arrondissement. However, driving in Paris is only for the brave or mad. The easiest way to get a taxi in Paris is to find a rank at train and large metro stations. The white light on the roof indicates the taxi is free. You don't have to tip taxi drivers but they appreciate it if you round up the fare. Finally, several companies offer river tours down the Seine. It may be a touristy way to get around but it's still fun.

The Internet and education

Until quite recently Silicon Valley and its innovations had little effect on teaching and learning. But with the rise of the Internet, information technology is now beginning to have much more influence on education. Two areas which are becoming more and more significant are 'blogs' and 'wikis'.

The word 'blog' is short for 'weblog'. A blog is an online diary or 'log' of someone's life, thoughts, or opinions. Anybody can create their own 'blog' and blogging is becoming extremely popular – type 'blog' into Google and you'll get over 500 million results. For educational purposes, academics, teachers, and students create blogs as personal online study sites: places to work together and share information and ideas. Some universities even give their students and staff free space on a server to start their own blogs.

'Wikis' are websites where anyone can add content and make changes, so that the site becomes a group creation – 'wiki' stands for 'What I Know Is'. These sites can be a valuable source of information and opinion for students, though the information may not be totally accurate – some academics refuse to use them. Perhaps the best-known wiki is the online encyclopaedia, Wikipedia, which has more than one million entries in over 100 languages. Wikipedia is working hard to make sure that its information is completely accurate, so students will be able to use it with confidence, and there's no doubt that it is an incredible resource.

A NEW English country house

It may look like a giant starfish, but in fact it's an artist's impression of Grafton New Hall, the futuristic winner of a Royal Institute of British Architects competition for a modern English country house. It was designed by Ushida Findlay architects, better known for ultra-modern town houses in Tokyo. It's an extraordinary building which is unlike any other in England. The house is designed to look as if it's growing out of the ground; it is very low, and will be almost invisible from a distance.

Inside, the differences continue. The house has four wings, and each wing has a different role – sleeping, cooking and eating, relaxing, and entertaining friends. The wings are designed to be used at different times of day, according to the position of the sun. The main bedroom faces the sunrise, the open-plan living spaces will be lit by the midday sun, and the swimming pool area faces the sunset.

But so far Grafton New Hall only exists as architectural plans and an artist's impression. The house will not be built until someone offers to buy it. It will cost about £4 million to build, and will be very expensive to furnish. How much money is spent depends on who buys it and whether it ends up as a technology-filled James Bond home or a minimalist hideaway. The most likely buyers might be Manchester United footballers, pop stars, or super-rich businesspeople.

We often use the word 'friendship' but what does it really mean? What is a close friend? We asked two generations, male and female, to say what they thought:

1 : I think a close friend is someone you get on really well with, who helps you when you have problems, who gives you advice, and who always has time for you. I didn't use to have many close friends when I was at school or at university as I was very shy, but now I have several. They are all women – I think it's difficult to have a close friend of the opposite sex.

2 : I think a close friend is someone who you've known for a long time, and who you still get on with. They probably have similar hobbies to you so you can do things together. I've got three close friends who I was at secondary school with and we often go away together (without our parents of course). We either go camping or we stay in youth hostels but somewhere we can go walking, play football, and be outside in the open air.

3 : I'm not sure how to answer the question because I don't really have any close friends. I know a lot of people but mainly through work, and the sort of social occasions when we meet are business dinners, things like that. I think if you come from a really close family, which I do, then friends are a bit superfluous. The little free time I have I prefer to spend with my family.

4 : For me close friends are the people you spend your free time with. I go out at weekends with a group of people – there are about seven of us, and I'd say they are my close friends. They're also people who live near me. I don't think you can have close friends at a distance, you need to be able to see each other often. But I don't think you need to be doing the same things, I mean I'm at university but none of my friends are.

ROCK STARS' strange requests

When the Beatles first toured America in 1963 they only asked for soft drinks backstage. But things have changed, and rock stars and bands now include long lists of demands in their contracts before they agree to perform.

The band that started it all were Van Halen, a 1980s American heavy rock group. The story goes that one part of the contract asked for a bowl of M&Ms to be provided but with all the brown sweets removed!

Since then many major artists have become well known for their requests. Here are some of our favourite ones:

★ A rehearsal room to practise in before the show, which should be decorated in black leather with indoor plants. (Jane's Addiction)

★ An armour-plated Mercedes or a BMW, and three leather chairs and a sofa in the dressing room. (Whitney Houston)

★ A meditation room. (Red Hot Chilli Peppers)

★ White flowers, white candles, a CD player, and a TV. Also that only Evian mineral water should be supplied. (Jennifer Lopez)

★ Champagne, homemade desserts, and 12 fluffy towels. (Mariah Carey)

★ Dry-cleaning services and two limousines, and Diet Coke (but it must be in cans, not bottles). (Elton John)

★ Vodka, red wine, 48 strong beers (which must not be American), 48 bottles of mineral water, a kettle, eight local postcards with stamps, and eight pairs of socks. (Coldplay)

Luckily for concert organizers not everyone is so demanding. US singer Beck only needs rice cakes, hummus, water, and yoghurt!

The Slow Down Diet: Eating for Pleasure, Energy, and Weight Loss

by Marc David

Our modern culture is very interested in doing as much as possible in the least amount of time. As a result, most people rush through life at a speed that makes a healthy lifestyle impossible. We eat fast, on the run, and often under stress. As a result, we not only lose most of the pleasure we might get from our food, but also damage our health. Many of us come to the end of the day feeling depressed and overweight.

In The Slow Down Diet, Marc David presents a new way to understand our relationship with food, encouraging us to look for quality ingredients and to take pleasure in eating. He presents an eight-week programme that allows readers to analyze their own connection to food, helping them get rid of old habits and any guilt they may have. He explains the disadvantages of all 'quick-fix' diets and tells the truth about common myths, such as 'the right way to lose weight is to eat less and exercise more'. Instead, he shows us strategies that help both the body and soul, proving that a full enjoyment of each meal is the best way to a healthy body.

c Answer the questions.

- 1 Why is a healthy lifestyle difficult for many people?
- 2 Do many people really enjoy their food?
- 3 How do many people feel at the end of the day?
- 4 How does Marc David want us to change our relationship with food?
- 5 How long does the programme last?
- 6 Does Marc David believe in strict diets?
- 7 What does the book say will happen if we really enjoy our meals?

d Look at the highlighted words. What do you think they mean? Check with your dictionary.

2 READING

a Read the text and tick (✓) the advice the writer would give this person.

“I’ve worked in sales and marketing for the past 20 years but I’m not happy with my job. How can I change my career?”

- 1 Go back to university to improve your qualifications. ☐
- 2 Think about what you like doing and decide what kind of career you would like. ☐
- 3 Talk to your boss about a different job in the same company. ☐

After twenty years in employment, many people don’t like going to work in the morning. They want to be truly excited about their jobs. But it’s difficult to change jobs and changing your career is even harder, so take time to do it right.

You’ll need to look at your skills and personal interests. Connecting work to personal interests is the best way to find a satisfying career. What do you really enjoy doing in your spare time? Is it sailing, gardening? Why do you find these activities enjoyable? Do you like gardening because you can be creative? Is sailing fun because you like visiting new places? It isn’t always a good idea to make your hobbies your career because then you’ll need to find a new hobby, but knowing why you like your hobbies is very important to knowing which career you might enjoy.

When you know the abilities you enjoy using and have decided which field you’d like to work in, it’s time to get practical.

Find out all about it. Who are the key companies? After finding potential employers, you can start thinking about possible jobs.

However, it’s very hard to find full-time employment in a completely different line of work. You might need to go to evening classes for extra qualifications for your CV. But employers prefer candidates to have a solid background in the field. You might have to start by working part time or even for free to gain experience.

Changing careers isn’t easy. People often find that ‘the devil you know is better than the devil you don’t’ and prefer to stay in a job they know. But I think life’s too short to spend a single minute doing something you don’t love doing.

b Mark the sentences T (True) or F (False).

- 1 A lot of people are still excited about their jobs after twenty years. F
- 2 Changing your career is harder than changing your job.
- 3 You should ask yourself why you enjoy your hobbies.
- 4 Your hobby will always be your perfect job.
- 5 You should look at the field you’d like to work in, then the companies, then the job.
- 6 Employers prefer to employ people with qualifications than experience.
- 7 People are often afraid of changing their career because they don’t know what will happen.
- 8 The expert suggests changing your job if you don’t love doing it.

c Look at the highlighted words. What do you think they mean? Check with your dictionary.

b Underline five words you don't know. Use your dictionary to look up their meaning and pronunciation.

VISITING THE LOUVRE is a special experience, but you need to know where to start. The first thing to recognize is that it's huge and you can't hope to see everything in a day – so don't try. You get a handy map of the museum with your entrance ticket and it highlights the main attractions, such as the Mona Lisa.

You can't visit the Louvre and not see the Mona Lisa, but my tip would be to see it first – though you may have to run to avoid the crowds! When you've done that, use the plan to look for the galleries that sound most interesting to you, and spend the morning visiting them, when you have plenty of energy. Then have some lunch at one of the reasonably priced cafés, and spend the afternoon relaxing and finding surprises without looking at your map. The beauty of any museum or gallery is personal discovery.

On a practical note, there are toilets located on all floors, and several shops selling really good books, guides, postcards, and souvenirs. Photography, surprisingly, is permitted.

You can borrow an audio guide for a fee, which is very useful and worth the money. You have to leave a credit card or passport or similar as security. There are several stalls offering audio guides, so you need to remember which one you got it from, as you must return it to the same one to get your credit card or passport back. The Louvre is organized into 'wings' with names (Denon, etc.) and the audio guides are at the entrance to each wing (under the glass pyramid).

Finally, the easiest way to enter the Louvre is via the Metro entrance, rather than from the street, as the queues are shorter.

Have a wonderful visit! ☺

4 READING

a Read the article and put the headings in the correct place.

How can you identify fakes?
 Why should you avoid buying fakes?
 What are the most common fakes?

'Fake' goods

Fake goods are a huge global problem. Technology has improved so much that it is easy for criminals to make sophisticated copies of products.

1 _____

- Designer clothes, especially famous brands like Gucci and Lacoste.
- Watches – for example, a fake Rolex watch will cost as little as $10.
- Perfume and cosmetics – it is estimated that up to 10% of perfumes and toiletries in the global marketplace are fakes.
- CDs, DVDs and computer software, such as games.
- Toys and sporting goods.

2 _____

- Be suspicious about bargains. If something seems too good to be true, it probably is!
- Check labels and packaging for misspellings and poor-quality logos. Poor-quality labels and packaging on perfumes and cosmetics can often indicate that the contents are not genuine.
- Take extra care at street markets or in other situations where it may be more difficult to get in touch with the trader after the purchase.

b Read the article again and match the sentence halves.

| 6 Fake cosmetics ...                        | <input type="checkbox"/>              |

- a means you have no consumer rights.
 b can cause skin problems.
 c can be dangerous.
 d often has a cheap label.
 e is used to pay for other criminal activity.
 f sometimes doesn't work correctly.

c Complete the sentences with words from the article.

- 1 A fake isn't authentic.
 2 A _____ is a problem with your skin.
 3 A _____ problem is a problem all over the world.
 4 A _____ is something which is much cheaper than usual.
 5 A _____ is the part of a watch that holds it on your wrist.
 6 _____ are things for sale.

- If you are buying CDs or DVDs, be suspicious of any with poor-quality boxes, no artist or film name on the disk itself, or no outer plastic wrapping.
- If you are unsure about a watch, look at the strap – fakes will often feel and look cheap.

3 _____

- The goods may be dangerous, from cosmetics that can cause rashes to toys that may cause accidents.
- Quality may be low – DVDs may have very poor sound, and computer software may not run correctly.
- A lot of fake goods provide money for drug dealers and other organized crime.
- You may be putting people out of jobs because genuine manufacturers can't compete with criminals.
- Remember that if you do decide to buy something from a street trader, you will have no rights, no after-sales service, no guarantees, and no consumer protection.

So you want to be a film extra?

This week we talk to Rob Martin, who has written a book called You Can Be A Movie Extra. He also has a company, The Casting Collective, which was formed in 1999. His company finds work for 'extras', people who want to appear in supporting roles in films or on television. He now employs 3,000 extras.

Rob says that people who have a more average appearance and don't stand out tend to get more work. He told us: 'People who are covered in tattoos or are really fat or really tall are only cast in more specific roles.'

Working as an extra won't lead to an Oscar nomination but Rob insists that it is an art form. 'The extras work very long hours and there's a lot of waiting around. And then they'll suddenly be required to dance like crazy for a nightclub scene, and more often than not they'll have to dance without any music, which I'm sure is very difficult!'

So, what does it take to be an extra?

Rob says 'You have to have a good sense of humour and you have to be able to get on with people. As an extra it's your job not to annoy the stars, who always have a lot of pressure on them.'

One of Rob's extras, Nobuko Slater, has appeared as an extra in a number of big films, but he hasn't given up his day job. He said 'I have a full-time job in finance in London, but in recent years I've seen myself in the films Tomb Raider, Spy Game, and Legally Blonde! It all began when I fancied doing something really different and I always liked the idea of meeting film stars. I applied for the role of 'Businessman wearing smart clothes' in Tomb Raider and they obviously liked my pictures because a month later I was on the film set. I only work as an extra for about ten days a year but that suits me very well. I'm already looking forward to seeing myself in the next Harry Potter film!'

Another extra, Lucy Wallis, warns people who want to be extras that the job is often not very glamorous. 'I was once paid £100 to pretend to be dead for the day, for an episode of the TV programme London's Burning.'

Rob's book, which is packed with tips about the film and TV industry, stresses that extras have to be prepared for anything. He adds: 'Working as an extra doesn't pay very well, but it's unique and it's fun. And although they don't get much thanks for it, the extras are a major factor in a film's success – don't forget that!'

2 READING

- a Read the text and number paragraphs A–E in the correct order.

The teenager who changed world history

A The assassination of Franz Ferdinand was the direct cause of the First World War, which started the same year, and which resulted in the deaths of nine million soldiers. The war ended in 1918 with the Treaty of Versailles, which was very unfavourable to Germany. This, in turn, resulted in Germany going to war again in 1939, a war in which approximately 60,000,000 people around the world lost their lives.

B For example, do you know who Gavrilo Princip was? Probably not. He was a Serb, born in Bosnia in 1894 and was one of nine children, six of whom died when they were very young. Gavrilo's health was also very bad and he suffered from tuberculosis. He studied in Belgrade where he spent most of his time with nationalists who wanted a union between Bosnia-Herzegovina and Serbia. He died when he was just 24 years old.

C The Second World War ended with the Treaty of Yalta in 1945 which led to the division of Eastern Europe, which eventually led to the conflict in Yugoslavia in the 1990s. Possibly no other person has had so much impact on world history over the last century than the sickly teenager, Gavrilo Princip.

D History tells us about famous leaders, Kings and Queens, but what about the great changes which have been caused by one small act carried out by a relatively unknown person?

E So why is he so important? Well, Gavrilo Princip is the boy who, at the age of 19, assassinated Archduke Franz Ferdinand in Sarajevo in 1914. Franz Ferdinand was going to be the next Austro-Hungarian emperor and the nationalists wanted their country to be independent from the empire. After shooting and killing the Archduke in his car, Gavrilo was captured by the police and sentenced to 20 years imprisonment. But he died in prison of tuberculosis in 1918.

3 READING

- a Before you read the text, read the sentences and mark them T (True) or F (False).

When you write a business email you should ...

- 1 ... use long sentences. _____
- 2 ... always use small letters not capitals. _____
- 3 ... send a business email 'high priority'. _____
- 4 ... check your spelling and punctuation. _____
- 5 ... use abbreviations (e.g. a.s.a.p. = as soon as possible). _____

- 7 ... always use 'Reply to all' when you reply to an email the boss has sent to everybody. _____
- 8 ... check you are sending it to the right person. _____

- b Now read the text and check your answers.

TOP TIPS for writing business emails

- 1 Use correct spelling, grammar, and punctuation. Emails with mistakes are difficult to read and can result in misunderstandings. And, if your program has spellcheck, why not use it?
- 2 Don't overuse the 'high priority' option. If you do, it will lose its power when you really need it. It can also seem quite aggressive.
- 3 Don't write in CAPITAL LETTERS. IF YOU WRITE IN CAPITALS IT SEEMS AS IF YOU ARE SHOUTING. This can be highly annoying for the person you are writing to.
- 4 When you reply to an email, don't forget to include the original mail in your reply because the recipient might not remember the context.
- 5 Don't use 'Reply to all' unless your message really needs to be seen by each person who received the original message. Not everyone is necessarily interested in your reply.
- 6 In business emails, you shouldn't use abbreviations such as BTW (by the way) or emoticons (:-)). The recipient might not know what they mean and they are generally not appropriate.
- 7 Avoid long sentences. Try to keep your sentences to a maximum of 15–20 words. Email is faster than letters and requires a different kind of writing.
- 8 And finally, check that you are sending the email to the right person. A mistake here can be very embarrassing.

| 8 a section of a hospital                  | _____       |

JANUARY 8th
– the most dangerous day
of the year!

Be careful on January 8th – it's officially the most dangerous day of the year. The insurance company Hyperion has analyzed accident statistics and has found that there are more insurance claims for accidents on January 8th than on any other day.

Accidents are certainly more likely to occur at particular times of year. One general rule is that more accidents happen in winter months, because risk increases in bad weather. In 2004 and 2005 Hyperion found that the worst day was January 8th, with 298 motoring accidents reported to them. March 3rd was statistically the safest day, with only 89 reports. Six of the ten worst days for motoring were in January.

It's obvious that icy and snowy conditions are dangerous, but some other statistics are more puzzling. A British Medical Journal report in 2001, for example, found that hospital admissions were always higher than usual on Friday 13th.

But it is not only when Friday falls on the 13th that it is a dangerous day. Four of the top ten worst days for accidents last year were Fridays – perhaps because everyone is rushing home for the weekend – while Thursdays are the safest day of the week.

At what time of day is an accident most likely to occur? Analysis by the Health and Safety Authority found that people are most likely to have an accident at 11.00 a.m., whereas the safest time of day is between 4.00 and 5.00 a.m. – probably because most people are in bed!

Finally, good news for Harry Potter fans. Doctors at the John Radcliffe Hospital in Oxford noted that fewer children were admitted to the emergency ward on the weekends when Harry Potter books were released. Casualties fell by over 50% when the last two books went on sale. So if you want to be really safe, you should read a Harry Potter book in bed, at around 5.00 on a Thursday morning, in summer ...

Jack The Ripper

At The Movies

Who was Jack the Ripper? That question has interested everyone from police inspectors to armchair detectives for over a century, and the film industry is no exception.***

In 1926, the famous director, Alfred Hitchcock, made his first thriller, The Lodger, which was based on the Jack the Ripper story. A 1959 film generally follows the real events but doesn't use any real names, and introduces an American policeman to help solve the murder mystery. In 1965, A Study In Terror put Jack the Ripper against the fictional detective Sherlock Holmes. Holmes ultimately succeeds in finding Jack the Ripper, but had to face him again in Murder By Decree in 1979. Even the famous horror film producers, Hammer Films, made two movies based on the Ripper. One of the biggest recent films starred Johnny Depp as a policeman searching for Jack the Ripper in the 2001 film From Hell.

With so few clues and methods of detection at the time, it seems the only way we might discover the real identity of Jack the Ripper would be to go back in time to one of the crime scenes before a murder occurs. In 1979's Time After Time, H. G. Wells uses a time machine to find the murderer. And the film makes an interesting point – that compared with today's violence and crime, Jack the Ripper is almost an amateur!

Over the years, television has also taken its inspiration from the Ripper case for a number of shows, ranging from the western Cimarron Strip to science fiction in Star Trek. Today there are hundreds of books, articles, films, websites, and guided tours, and even a recent musical and CD. But why so much interest? In 2000, a television documentary concluded that, even if someone had proof of the Ripper's identity, people still would not believe them. Perhaps in some way we want the bloody mystery of Jack the Ripper to remain just that – a mystery.

* Over 40 films or TV dramas have been made about Jack the Ripper, more than for any other murderer.

Hugh Sawyer wakes up at 6.00 a.m., turns on the radio, gets up, has a wash and a shave, eats some breakfast, and gets on the bus to London.

At work he's always turned out in a good suit, stylish tie, and polished shoes. He regularly works out at the gym and often meets up with friends for drinks. In short, Sawyer leads the typical city life – with one exception. When his colleagues return home in the evening, Sawyer goes to a field in the woods near Oxford. The 32-year-old has given up every luxury to spend a year living outdoors.

'I want to make people think about how much they consume that is not necessary,' said Sawyer. 'I believe it is possible to do everything you normally do while cutting back. I have realized I can live without television, a sofa, electricity, chairs, tables, a fridge, and a freezer.' Before he took up his new life, he cut down his belongings to just a few clothes, books, and photographs. At night he has a sleeping bag and a small cooker. Despite the difficulties, Sawyer is enjoying his challenge. His original plan was to live outdoors for six weeks but decided to carry on after finding it 'quite easy'.

However, Sawyer still hasn't experienced a British winter outdoors. He admits he is nervous. 'It'll be dark when I get up and go to sleep and it'll be miserable and wet.' But a bigger problem might be returning to full-time city life. 'The real question is what happens when he finally stops,' said psychologist John Collings. 'If he puts up with it for a year, it will be difficult to go back to the noise of the city.'

The Banks of the Seine

In 1991, Paris, Banks of the Seine was added to Unesco's World Heritage List, joining such famous sites as the Great Wall of China or the Taj Mahal in India. The area in Paris extends from Notre Dame in the east to the Eiffel Tower in the west. Along this long route you can find many of the main treasures of the French capital. Notre Dame, the city's cathedral, is one of the oldest monuments and dates from the 12th century. It is located on the Ile de la Cité, a little island on the Seine that is linked with the rest of the city via many bridges, of which the Pont Neuf is the most famous and oldest. In the middle of the route there are the two major museums: the Louvre and the Gare d'Orsay, a former train station but now a museum of 19th and 20th century art. The Louvre was originally built to defend the city from the Saxons in the 12th century and has even been a residence for the kings of France.

This is also the part of the route where Place de la Concorde is situated, with the Egyptian Obelisk in the centre. The square was originally designed in the 18th century and its centre held a guillotine during the French Revolution, responsible for the deaths of the king and queen, among others. The Egyptian Obelisk comes originally from the temple of Luxor and has hieroglyphics describing the achievements of the pharaoh Rameses II. The end of the Banks of the Seine route is marked by the Eiffel Tower. Built in 1889 for the World Fair, it is still the number one symbol for Paris.

I don't agree with that. I mean, compared with ten years ago, there's a lot more information available about the food we eat, on TV and in the papers, and I think that nowadays young people know what's healthy and what isn't, much more than they did before. And I think young people are also more concerned about their appearance than they were ten years ago. They want to be fit and to look good. This means that they're usually careful not to eat too much fatty food or too many carbohydrates. And they know that eating fruit and vegetables is good for you and they try to do that. OK, so perhaps they still sometimes eat junk food, burgers, and chips and things, when they go out, but I think in general they eat more healthily than say ten years ago.

I cheated in a chemistry exam when I was at secondary school. I think I was about 16 or 17 years old. I hated all the sciences – chemistry, biology, and physics. I just couldn't understand them. I hated physics the most but I never cheated in the physics exams because the teacher was really strict and he always watched us really carefully. The chemistry teacher was a lot more relaxed. She was reading a book while we were doing the exam. I was sitting next to my best friend – he was very good at chemistry – and he'd written all the answers on a piece of paper. Then he folded the piece of paper, put it in his pencil case, and passed his pencil case to me. But just at that moment, the teacher looked up from her book and saw my friend giving me the pencil case. She came up to my desk and took the pencil case from me and opened it. When she saw the answers written on the piece of paper she got really angry and sent us out of the room. Luckily she didn't tell our parents but we failed the exam of course.

I'm an only child. I don't think I was spoilt, but maybe I was. I don't consider myself to be selfish, but I'm probably not very good at seeing things from other people's point of view. Maybe that's because I'm not very imaginative. I am quite responsible and organized though, so probably most of what the psychologist says is true for me.

Er – other people in my family – well my wife is a youngest child. I think she's quite affectionate, that's true, but she certainly isn't lazy – she's one of the most hardworking people I know, and I'd say she's charming but she's not manipulative.

My dad is an oldest child and I think it's true that he is much more responsible than his brother and sister, and I know they think he was always quite bossy. Actually they still think he is.

I've never been very good at saving money. If I can afford something I want, I'll buy it; if I can't, I won't. I can't remember the last time I really saved up for something.

I lost my wallet a few years ago. It fell out of my pocket in a train. It had my credit cards and money in it. But somebody found it and took it to a police station and the police phoned me and I went to get it. It still had all my cards and the money in it. I was amazed. But the person didn't leave their name so I couldn't say thank you.

I buy loads of things on the Internet, especially books and music. The last thing I bought were some chocolates for my mum's birthday last month.

Somebody tried to steal money from me a few years ago. I was walking in the city centre late at night coming back from a friend's house but I didn't have any, so he was quite disappointed.

I've never sold anything on the Internet – but friends of mine use websites like eBay all the time to sell things they don't want. One of my friends even sold his car on the Internet recently.

I haven't lent anybody any money for ages. The last time I did was when I was at school. One of my friends asked me to lend him some money. It wasn't very much, but he didn't pay me back. We never spoke to each other again.

I have been cycling for years. I love cycling in the summer when there's plenty of daylight after work. The countryside around Oxford is great for cycling – not too many hills and nice quiet roads. It's great exercise and also really good thinking time.

I've been learning how to cross-country ski for a year. I've done a lot of downhill skiing but cross-country is completely different. I prefer it because there are fewer people around you and you can ski to some really beautiful places. I think somewhere like Scandinavia is the best place to do it.

I have a friend from Norway who lives in the UK and we often go away together at weekends and on holiday. We've been friends for about five years. I met her on a mountaineering course and we've been good friends ever since. We have a lot of similar interests.

My bicycle is a very important possession. I've had it for about five years and have cycled thousands of kilometres on it – it's a good friend!

I belong to the British Mountaineering Council, mainly because you get good discounts on equipment and clothing and also because they do the best insurance for people who do lots of activities in the mountains. I've been a member since 2004.

I drive a BMW. It's not really my sort of car, I mean I wouldn't have bought it myself, but it used to be my parents' and they gave it to me. It's great because it's got quite a powerful engine so is fun to drive and it's big enough to get two bicycles in the back. The main problem with it though is that it costs a fortune to run. I've had it for two years now and I really notice how much I've been spending on petrol.

I definitely agree that drivers shouldn't use any kind of mobile phone when they are driving. I mean you can't really concentrate on the road if you're having a telephone conversation at the same time. A hands-free mobile might be OK – I'm not sure. I know that some people try to read text messages or even write them while they're driving. I think that's crazy. I mean it's really dangerous because they stop looking at the road and look at their mobiles.

I'm not sure if slow drivers cause more accidents than fast drivers but they certainly do cause accidents. If someone's driving really slowly then people get impatient and try to overtake and this can be very dangerous. Slow drivers make other drivers angry and an angry driver can be a dangerous driver.

I think cyclists can be just as dangerous as car drivers. I'm a cyclist so I look at other cyclists and I see that quite a lot of them don't stop at traffic lights and things like that. Some cyclists think they can do whatever they want. They cycle on the pavement and in the middle of the road and they zigzag between cars.

I think you should move away from other people when you're talking on a mobile – it's good manners. And you shouldn't play noisy games or talk really loudly if you're on a bus or a train or somewhere where there are lots of people nearby. It doesn't really bother me, but some people find it very annoying.

As far as I know, you mustn't use a mobile at all in a car, whether you're moving or not, even for text messages – it's against the law. So is using your mobile at a petrol station, and you have to turn your mobile off on planes too. Switching off your mobile in class is just good manners, you should definitely do that. It's really annoying for everyone when someone's phone rings in the middle of something, and it's even worse if they answer it. And making personal calls in public – well, it depends. I suppose people shouldn't do it, but it can be very interesting to listen to!

OK, this famous person I'm going to describe is a man and he's Spanish. He's probably in his mid-sixties, but I'm not 100% sure – definitely in his sixties though. He's very tall and very well built – not exactly fat though. I remember I saw him once in London quite close up. He was wearing a long fur coat and he looked like a big bear. He's got dark curly hair, not very long. Well, it's probably a bit grey now. He's a singer, an opera singer.

The next person is a woman, and she's British, though she's married to an American. Actually she's Welsh, and she goes back to Wales a lot to visit her family. She's in her thirties I think, probably late thirties, and she's got long, wavy, dark hair and big eyes. She's slim but not very very slim like a model – she's quite curvy. Most people think she's beautiful. She's an actress.

A Can you cook?

B Yes, I can. I think I'm quite good at it. Most people seem to enjoy eating the things I cook for them, but you never know, maybe they're just being polite.

I first started trying to cook when I left home and went to university. I didn't have much money and it was much cheaper cooking my own food than eating in the canteen or in restaurants.

I learnt by myself really, by experimenting and improvising. To be honest, when I first started cooking most of my food was terrible. But I learnt quite fast.

Except at the very beginning, I think I've found it quite easy, mainly because I enjoy cooking and I enjoy eating. But it's not something that everyone can learn to do. I think some people are just too impatient to learn to cook well.

I disagree with this for three reasons. First of all, I think it's better if all children look the same – especially for children who come from poorer families. And secondly, I think it's easier for the parents. They just have to buy one set of clothes for their children. And finally, it's much quicker for the children to get ready in the mornings. They don't have to make so many decisions about what to wear.

Absolutely, I agree with this. First of all, girls work better on their own because they're not thinking about boys all the time. Also, if there are boys in the class they tend to dominate and answer all the questions. If there aren't boys, I think girls feel more confident. Finally, I think without boys in the class there aren't so many discipline problems because girls generally behave better than boys. So teachers can concentrate on teaching and not on discipline.

If I won a dream holiday in a competition, I'd go to Kenya or Tanzania. I've always really wanted to go on safari, ever since I saw the elephants in the zoo when I was five years old.

If I could choose any car, I'd get a Ferrari or something like that. Not very practical, but good fun.

If I could be very good at a sport, I think I'd choose tennis. Every week I play my friend Kate, and every week she beats me. It drives me mad!

If I could choose my ideal job, I'd be a newsreader on TV. The money's good, and you only have to work for half an hour every evening.

If I had more time, I'd learn how to cook properly. I love eating but I'm not very good at cooking. I'd like to be able to cook a really nice dinner for my friends when they come round.

If I could buy a house in another country, I'd buy a ski chalet in the Swiss Alps, with enough room for all my family and friends. We could go there every Christmas – it'd be fantastic.

I used to have a friend called Matilda. We were together at secondary school. When we were 16 she moved because of her father's job, but we kept in touch. We used to write long letters to each other – email didn't exist then. I went to stay with her a couple of times too. We lost touch after university. I'd love to see her again. We used to be really good friends.

I used to hate a couple of teachers at school, but I suppose the one I hated the most was my French teacher. He was really horrible. I don't think he liked children or even teaching. He used to be rude to us and he didn't explain things well. I failed French – it was the only subject I ever failed at school.

I used to play a lot of squash, but I recently started playing tennis and now I much prefer it. The problem with squash is that it's pretty hard and aggressive and maybe I'm just not fit enough to play it any more. Also the friend I used to play with always beat me. The great thing about tennis is that it's outdoors, and I play doubles with three friends. It's less competitive and more fun. The only problem is you can't play when it rains.

Personally I think banning fast food restaurants would be a good idea, but I don't think you can do that. I mean you can't ban a particular type of restaurant just because the food is unhealthy. People have to take personal responsibility for what they eat, and if people want to eat burgers, you can't stop them.

But banning cars from city centres, that would be great, that would really make a big difference. We need better public transport, and the best way to get it is to make people leave their cars at home. Anyway, there's nowhere to park in city centres. Some people probably wouldn't like it at first, because everyone uses their cars so much, but it would make the city centre so much nicer if you could walk around without worrying about the traffic. Also you could make pedestrian zones, with trees and cafés, and places to sit and read or just watch the world go by.

I think that both men and women read novels but they read different types. Generally men prefer reading science-fiction novels and action-based novels, and women prefer to read novels about feelings, emotions, and personal relationships. I think men find that quite boring and prefer something with more action in it. I know that personally, I don't really like reading science-fiction novels so I'm the stereotype, I suppose.

Well I think generally women like shopping much more than men and they can spend hours looking around shops, not making any decisions, just looking at things. However, my boyfriend and I aren't typical at all because he loves shopping, much more than I do, and he can spend hours walking around all the shops. Whereas I find it really, really boring.

I'm going to tell you about my sister-in-law, Marjan. She's a cardiac surgeon, so she operates on people with heart problems. It's an incredibly responsible job and very tiring. Some of the operations she does last for hours, like heart transplants, and she has to be standing up and concentrating for all that time. She works really long hours, and she also often has to get up in the middle of the night if a patient of hers has got worse or something.

She works in one of the big London hospitals, and she also has a private clinic. I'm not sure what her salary is as we don't talk about things like that, but I imagine it's quite high.

She loves her job in spite of all the downsides. It took her years and years of studying and exams to get to where she is now, and she's passionately interested in what she does. She also spends ages reading articles and keeping up to date, and I think she does some teaching too. Probably her only complaint would be that she doesn't have enough time for her son. He's seven years old and of course she has very little free time for him or for herself.

Near my house there are a lot of small Indian shops selling vegetables and spices. I love walking around them, looking at everything.

I suppose my favourite shops are delicatessens. I just love food. I don't think I really have favourite shops for buying clothes, shoes, and books.

For presents, it obviously depends what I am buying and who it's for. I don't have one favourite shop.

I regularly shop at markets, supermarkets, and shopping centres. I like variety, it makes shopping more interesting.

I go shopping when I need to and I generally go on my own as it's easier.

I enjoy buying books and I absolutely hate buying swimsuits.

Shopping in the sales is a nightmare as everything is in a mess and there are thousands of people. I hate it.

I go to street markets sometimes – you can often find bargains there.

I have done quite a lot of shopping online. It is so easy. I have bought flight tickets, films, and books.

Actually, I once met several film actors when they were making a TV film in my home town. I even had a part because they needed extras. I just had to walk up and down a street. But I think they edited me out of the final film!

What do I prefer, TV, DVD, or cinema? It depends on the film. If it's a film that I think I'm really going to like, I'd rather go to the cinema to see it. If it's just entertainment, then I'm happy to wait and rent the DVD when it comes out or watch it on TV.

I normally prefer seeing foreign films with subtitles, even if I don't understand the language they're in. I think it's very important to hear the actors' voice and tone.

I've seen several films this year but nothing really fantastic.

Manhattan Murder Mysteries by Woody Allen made me laugh a lot. I thought it was very good.

Manchuga, a Chilean film, made me cry.

A film I have seen several times is Grease. It's my favourite film ever. I have seen it a thousand times and I know the script by heart.

Someone I admire is the artist William Turner, who was born in London in 1775. I don't know very much about his life, or what he was like as a person – I just really like his pictures. I know that his mother died when he was a child, and he didn't really go to school very much, but he was always good at art, even when he was very young. He had an exhibition at the Royal Academy when he was 15. His paintings are usually very delicate images, often of rivers or lakes or the sea. One day he tied himself to a ship in a storm so that he could really experience the storm before he painted it. He travelled a lot in Europe and painted beautiful cities like Venice and Rome. When he was older, he decided to live a lonely life, painting and travelling on his own. He often refused to sell his paintings – maybe he already had enough money. He died in 1851, in London, I think.

Well, I did the questionnaire and I scored 18, which means that I'm 'naturally unlucky' and that I 'don't attract good luck'. I'm not sure that's really true. I've always thought of myself as being quite a lucky person – I won £50 on the lottery once, which is more than any of my friends have done. It also says that I 'need a more positive and adventurous attitude to life'. It's true that I'm not very adventurous, but I think I am positive about life. Maybe I should be a bit more open to new experiences, talking to new people, trying new food and so on – but on the other hand, I'm very happy with the friends I have and the food I eat. I can see that new experiences might be enjoyable, but I'm not sure they really make you luckier. In fact, I think that some people are just naturally unlucky, and there's not much they can do about it.

- A Could you tell me who your favourite fictional detective is?
- B Yes, my favourite detective's Chief Inspector Wexford. He's the detective in a lot of the crime novels written by Ruth Rendell.
- A What do you like about him?
- B I like the fact that he's a very real character. For example, he's happily married, which is quite unusual for fictional detectives, he's in his mid-fifties, he lives in a small village near the coast, and he has two grown-up children.
- A Is his family important in the books?
- B Yes, apart from the murder or crime, part of the stories are always about his family. For example he has two daughters and one of them is an actress, and the other is jealous of her because she's successful and she's Wexford's favourite.
- A I suppose he always solves the crimes.
- B Well yes, of course he does, but what I like about him is that he doesn't have any incredible powers. He's an extremely good listener, he listens to everything, even pieces of silly gossip, which can often give him a clue which helps him solve the crime. Then he sits at home and works things out. What I really like about him is that he's just an ordinary person who's good at his job.

We have three TVs in our house – one in the living room, one in the kitchen, and one in our bedroom. But we mainly just watch the one in the living room. I have a friend who doesn't have a TV. In fact, he doesn't even have a radio. He says he prefers to read everything in the newspaper.

I have five national channels. I don't have satellite or cable TV. The channel I watch most is Channel 4 because I think it has the most interesting programmes. I don't watch any foreign channels although I would like to have Spanish TV, because I would like to be able to practise my Spanish. I don't watch as much TV as I used to. I normally watch one hour every evening on weekdays. I hardly watch any TV at the weekend. There are always more interesting things to do.
